

Rajdeep Banerjee was born in West Bengal and grew up in a small town in North Bengal, nestled in the foothills of the Himalayas. He earned his Master's degrees in Electronics Engineering from Calcutta University, followed by a PhD in Physics from The Jawaharlal Nehru Centre for Advanced Scientific Research in Bangalore. For the past six years, Dr. Banerjee has been working as a data scientist in the industry. Outside of his scientific endeavors, he is a poet who finds joy in exploring how his scientific background influences and molds his artistic expression.
